Achieving CIPS Corporate Certification provides independent confirmation of Aquanima's processes, technology and best practices being world-class. Leading-edge technology and processes are at the core of our service delivery model, enabling us to generate real value for our clients.

Aquanima is a leading procurement services provider, set up in 2001 and with operations in 10 countries in Europe and the Americas. Our 300+ procurement specialists source £4 billion annually for clients across various industries, achieving sustainable savings in over 150 categories of indirect spend.

We specialise in non-core spend, an area of spend that tends to be placed on the back burner by many organisations but which can have a significant impact in the bottom line. We work with our clients, applying the best tools and processes to improve visibility and control, reduce costs and mitigate supply risk.

We offer a range of solutions, from initial opportunity assessment to execution of strategic sourcing projects and procurement process outsourcing. Whatever your needs, our solutions provide flexible access to best-in-class procurement processes, tools and expertise, enabling you to focus on your core spend and business.

Aquanima brings a fresh, neutral approach to every procurement challenge. We listen, observe and investigate before we advise and implement. This means we can work with our clients to find the best tools and processes to improve visibility and control, reduce costs and mitigate supply risk.
